

KCC College Now/College Online H.S.

Selecting the Perfect Writing Course

After completing WRI121Z (College Composition I), students in Oregon often face an important choice: whether to continue with WRI122Z - Composition II, (Argumentative Writing) or shift to WRI227Z (Technical Writing). This decision is more than just selecting a class—it's about aligning your writing skills with your academic and career goals. Whether you're planning to pursue a university degree or enter a technical or professional field, the right course can sharpen your communication, boost your confidence, and prepare you for success in college and beyond. Take time to consider your interests, your career path, and the kind of writing you'd be doing most. This decision matters- and it can make a real difference.

Course Comparison

WRI122Z – Argumentative Writing

- Ideal for liberal arts, humanities, and social sciences
- Develops persuasive and analytical essay skills
- Emphasizes critical thinking and scholarly engagement
- Prepares for university-level work

WRI227Z – Technical Writing

- Focuses on professional and technical communication
- Ideal for STEM, business, health sciences, and trades
- Develops clear, concise, and user-centered documents
- Emphasizes real-world writing like reports and proposals
- Prepares for workplace communication and applied writing.

Need Help Deciding?

Talk to your counselor or advisor to determine which course best fits your academic and career goals.