To receive a dependency override and be awarded Federal Financial Aid without parental information, you must answer all questions and provide appropriate documentation to substantiate your mitigating circumstances.

Please be advised that unless it is determined that there are mitigating circumstances beyond your control that make it impossible or unreasonable for you to provide parental information on your financial aid application, your appeal will not be approved. The following are NOT acceptable reasons to appeal:

- A student or parent choice that you live outside the parental home
- Parent's unwillingness to provide information or student's unwillingness to seek parental information
- Being financially self-supporting

1. Explain why it is impossible or unreasonable to obtain your parents' information. If you no longer have contact with your parents, explain your situation. (If necessary, you may attach a separate sheet of paper.)
